MR. GRAHAM'S CRITICISMS.

EVERY MEMBER of the community in Great Britain will be affected by the supplementary budget, embodying the proposals of the National Government for dealing with the financial emergency, introduced in the House of Commons yesterday by Mr. Philip Snowden.

The Chancellor's speech lasted for an hour and a quarter and it may be taken for granted that never before did a speech of such brevity contain so much of a disagreeable nature. Mr. Snowden asked the nation to face up to the problems before the country.

PROHIBITION OF LUXURY IMPORTS.

London, Sept. 10.
Never had the House of Commons been more crowded for a Budget speech than when the Speaker took the chair this afternoon. All the public galleries were full to their utmost capacity.

Some of the members of the Government bloc had to sit on the steps of the gangways. Others were happy to stand.

A cordial welcome was extended by Ministerialists to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Philip Snowden, when he entered the House, a repetition of the cordial reception given him by the crowds assembled in the streets to watch his arrival.

The Chancellor, at the outset of his speech, said he was about to discharge one of the most disagreeable tasks that had ever fallen to his lot. Regrettable cuts in expenditure would have to be made in many directions. Taxation would have to be increased. The situation was such that the Government had to act and act swiftly, to balance the budget if Britain's international credit was to be preserved.

The Government's Programme.

Unfolding the programme of the Government, he said that the deficit on this year's budget was estimated at £74,000,000. The deficit on next year's budget was estimated at £170,000,000.

The total amount secured by savings that year would be £22,000,000 and the gross savings next would be £70,000,000.

The sinking fund provision would be reduced from £50,000,000 to £32,500,000, which would be sufficient to meet the Government's obligations.

Additional taxation was required this year to produce a sum of £30,000,000. Next year, the additional sum required by new taxation would be £30,000,000, of which the greater part in both cases, must be borne by direct taxation.

The standard rate of income tax would be increased by sixpence to five shillings in the pound.

Relief For Industry.

Industry would receive some compensation for this income tax increase by relief of roughly the same amount by a special increase of the existing allowance for depreciation of plant. The bulk of this relief would go to the basic industries of the country, and it is hoped will encourage the replacement of old plant.

A single man's income tax exemption of £135 will be reduced to £100.

Exemptions Reduced.

A married man's exemption will be reduced from £225 to £150. Children's allowances will be reduced for the first child from £60 to £50, and other children, from £50 to £40.

The income tax proportion which will pay half the standard rate will be £175 instead of £250, but the deduction hitherto allowed of one-sixth of earned income on a maximum of £250, will be altered to one-fifth on a maximum of £300. The surtax yield will be increased by ten per cent.

The total income tax and surtax increases will be £29,000,000 this year, and £37,500,000 in a full year. This comprises all the direct taxation.

Beer and Cigarettes to Cost More.

As regards indirect taxation, the duty on beer is increased by one penny per pint. This is expected to produce £4,500,000 this year and £10,000,000 next. Imported leaf tobacco duties are increased from 10s. 6d. to 11s. 6d. per pound, producing £2,500,000 this year and £4,000,000 next.

Other forms of tobacco besides leaf have their duties increased in the same proportion.

The petrol tax is increased by two pence per gallon, giving £4,000,000 and £7,500,000 in a full year.

The entertainments duty is increased on a new scale, including, for the first time, the cheaper seats, but not children's tickets which do not exceed two pence.

The alterations are expected to provide a new revenue of £1,000,000 this year and £2,500,000 next.

There will be no further new taxation.

War Loan Conversion.

The Finance Bill will provide facilities for the conversion of the Five Per Cent. War Loan (amounting to £2,000,000,000) to a lower rate of interest.

The new proposals to cover the estimated deficit for this year of £74,000,000 provide as follows:

Economies, £22,000,000.
Savings on Debt Redemption, £13,700,000.

New taxation, £29,000,000.
Customs & Excise, £11,500,000.

leaving an estimated surplus of £1,500,000.

Next year's estimated deficit of £170,000,000 will be met by the following provisions:

Economies, £70,000,000.
Debt Savings, £20,000,000.
New taxation, £81,500,000.

also leaving an estimated surplus of £1,500,000.

Mr. Snowden referring to the Five Per Cent. War Loan conversion proposals, spoke of the disturbing conditions hitherto prevailing since 1929 to prevent his plans from going forward.

Parliament would be asked to say that if the holders of the bonds did not dissent from conversion at the end of three months' notice of the intended conversion, they would be taken as accepting the offer.

Previous Warnings.

In giving the figures of the threatened deficit on the current year, Mr. Snowden reminded the House of the grave warnings he had given in February last, and again on the eve of the adjournment in July, regarding the budgetary position.

The trade depression had reduced the yield of taxes and at the same time increased national expenditure.

National income had been falling and while seven years ago the unemployment fund was paying its way, and paying off debt, this year it was costing the Exchequer about a hundred million pounds.

Borrowing to Cease.

Mr. Snowden explained that the Government had decided that borrowing for unemployment and the road funds must cease, though this involved an addition of £34,000,000 to the vote for the year.

He put the fall in revenue at £29,000,000—£25,000,000 of Inland Revenue and £4,000,000 of Customs and Excise.

The suspension of war debt payments under President Hoover's plan accounted for £30,000,000. Supplementary estimates of one million brought the total deficit to 94 millions, but with £19,500,000 saved on interest and the fund of the American Government, the deficit was reduced to £74,500,000.

TWO STEAMERS SEND OUT S.O.S. SIGNALS.

ONE ASHORE NR. HONGKONG.

MALAY MARU HIT BY TYPHOON.

(Our Own Correspondent.)

Shanghai, Sept. 10.
Responding to urgent S.O.S. signals, the Lloyd Triestino liner, Gange, which left Shanghai three days ago, is rushing to the aid of an unidentified ship which has gone ashore on an island to the north of Hongkong.

The vessel apparently got into difficulties and grounded yesterday. It seems likely that the vessel is a Chinese coaster, but no further details have been received.

Later.
The Gange is on her way to Singapore from Hongkong. It is presumed that the information received in Shanghai wrongly identifies her as the vessel answering the S.O.S. signal.

Another steamer is also reported in distress this morning, the s.s. Malay Maru, which seems to have run into the typhoon which passed between Formosa and the Loochoo Islands yesterday.

Brief messages received in the Colony state that the Malay Maru is giving out distress signals from Lat. 24.5 N. Long. 127. The Gozan Maru and Total Maru are rushing to her assistance.

Damage Unknown.

The message was relayed by the Chicago Maru, of the O.S.K. line. The Malay Maru's agents, the Yamashita Kisen Kaisha, have no information regarding the extent of the damage.

The Malay Maru is a 4,657-ton vessel belonging to the Ishihara Shosen Kaisha, and operates between Singapore and Japan. She was built in 1908, and has a length of 379.9 feet, a breadth of 50.1 and a depth of 20.0 ft. She is a cargo vessel and does not carry passengers.

She is under the command of Capt. F. Tabata and carries a crew of 42. She was on her way from Singapore to Yawata in Japan, carrying a cargo of iron ore.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Mackintosh, who have been on holiday in Manchuria, returned by the P. and O. s.s. Othello this morning. Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Walsh were passengers by the same boat.

GOVERNOR UPHELD.

Habeas Corpus Judgment.

APPEAL TO PRIVY COUNCIL.

The Full Court, composed of the Chief Justice (Sir Joseph Kemp) and the acting Puisne Judge (Mr. Justice Lindsell) this morning gave their decision against Sung Man-cho, alleged Annamite revolutionary, in the habeas corpus application made on his behalf.

Mr. F. C. Jenkin, on behalf of the fugitive, said he would apply for leave to appeal to the Privy Council. The motion is to be heard to-morrow, and the Crown has given an undertaking that Sung Man-cho will not be deported until after the hearing.

Points From Judgment.

In the course of a lengthy written judgment, the Chief Justice said:—One ground on which the second deportation order was attacked was that, with certain immaterial exceptions, the Governor in Council has power to make only one deportation order against any person and is functus officio when he has made one, and another ground was that there cannot be two deportation orders against the same person in existence at the same time. I do not agree. My reasons are:—

POSEIDON FUND GRATITUDE.

BENEVOLENT TRUST RESOLUTION.

GENEROUS GIFTS.

Warm expressions of gratitude to all who subscribed to the Poseidon Disaster Fund inaugurated by the Hongkong branch of the Navy League are contained in a resolution passed at a meeting of the Central Committee of the Royal Naval Benevolent Trust, to which the funds were handed for distribution.

The General Secretary of the Trust, in a letter to the Hon. Secretary of the local branch of the Navy League, states:

"I have much pleasure in forwarding to you the following resolution which was carried unanimously at the 29th Meeting of the Central Committee (24th July, 1931) in connection with the contribution of £2,654 3s. 3d. raised by the Hongkong branch of the Navy League:

"That the Central Committee of the Royal Naval Benevolent Trust, on behalf of the Petty Officers, Non-Commissioned Officers and Men of His Majesty's Navy, expresses heartfelt gratitude to all who contributed towards the following generous gifts entrusted to it for the benefit of the widows and dependents of ratings who lost their lives when H.M.S. Poseidon was sunk on the 6th June, 1931:

Subscribed by the Hongkong branch of the League, £2,654 3s. 3d.; subscription raised by North China Daily News, Shanghai, £3,448 8s. 3d.

"I am requested by my Committee to ask that, if possible, you will convey this resolution and sincere thanks of the Royal Naval Benevolent Trust, as far as possible, to the individual subscribers."

ARMED SOLDIERS BOARD C.N.S. POYANG.

YANGTZE RIVER INCIDENT.

ON A MUDBANK.

Shanghai, Sept. 11.

The British authorities are investigating an incident in the Yangtze River on Wednesday evening, at about 6.20 p.m. when twenty Chinese soldiers, armed with Thompson machine guns, boarded the China Navigation Company's s.s. Poyang, and removed eight piculs of opium.

The Poyang, which was returning to Shanghai after spending several days aground in the River, near the Fitzroy Middle Channel, was in the vicinity of Kiangyin Point when she was stopped and boarded.

The master of the Poyang, Captain J. Beck, had barely got his ship under way when he noticed a launch crowded with soldiers heading across his bows and that they were armed with machine-guns which were trained on the ship.

Two Hours' Search.

He was signalled to stop and did so.

The soldiers were aboard the vessel for about two hours, searching high and low, and were about to go when a man yelled in the forecastle, denoting success.

Eight piculs of opium were found, apparently crew-smuggled from Hankow or Kiangling. The troops had evidently received information.

The Poyang went aground at 3 a.m. on August 26, off Fitzroy Island, near Kiangyin Forts, the mishap being due to the fact that the flood waters had concealed all landmarks in the vicinity.

H.M.S. Aphis arrived on the following day to prevent possible piracy and to render assistance, while the s.s. Wenchow conveyed her forty European passengers and 400 Chinese passengers to Shanghai.

The Poyang was lying on a bed of mud and the tugs of the New Engineering Works who refloated her have wireless indicating that she has suffered very little, if any damage.

Q. P. RANGERS LOSE AT HOME.

London, Sept. 10.

In the Third Division (South) of the English League to-day, Queen's Park Rangers again failed before their own supporters, Swindon winning by two goals to one. In the Northern section, Carlisle and Wrexham drew, each side netting twice. Reuter.

Merchant Service Pensions.

Big Scheme Drawn Up by Council of Officers' Federation.

Through the courtesy of Capt. T. T. Laurensen, D.S.C., branch secretary of the China Coast Officers' Guild, we are able to give the outline of a contributory pensions scheme for officers of the Merchant Navy, which has been drawn up after exhaustive enquiry by the Representative Council of the Officers' Federation in London as a basis of ultimate discussion with the shipowners' representatives.

It is stated in the booklet giving details of the plan that the absence of a general Pension Scheme is probably one of the chief causes of the discontent which unfortunately exists in many sections of the Service.

The basis of the scheme is that per cent. of Officers' (deck and engine room) wages to a Central Body, and the Officers should similarly contribute 5 per cent. of their wages. It is suggested that the deduction should be made at source by Government Officials (Shipping Superintendents or Consuls) intending the "paying-off" of ships.

It is suggested that, having adopted the scheme, owners would make participation in it a condition of future entry into their service.

Benefits to Pass.

An Officer having joined the scheme would continue in it so long as he was employed by any one of the Shipowners who are a party to it. The benefits would pass with the Officer as he left one employer to

GUIMARAES TO GO BEFORE JUDGE.

BROKER IDENTIFIES HIM WITH FORMER CASE.

Following his committal on charges relating to an alleged bank-note trick by which Wong To-po, a Chinese journalist, is said to have been defrauded of $7,000, Leo Guimaraes yesterday faced further charges based by the Crown on somewhat similar facts and with another Chinese, a broker, named Ho Pul-yim, as the complainant.

The case for the Crown was conducted by Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith, and that of Guimaraes by Mr. Leo d'Almada, Jr., on instructions from Messrs. Johnson, Stokes & Master.

Ho Pul-yim testified that he was the purchasing official of the Yuk Kee Grocery, of 116, Connaught Road West, but in addition, did business for other people. At the end of April last he was commissioned by the Ming Tai firm of Kwang Chow Wan to buy Saigon one-plastre notes, for which 4,800 silver dollars were remitted to him, it being held that local exchange conditions favoured such a purchase.

In pursuance of this commission, he went to the Tak Sing exchange shop, opposite the Macao Wharf, on May 7, but was unable to effect the purchase. While standing on the pavement he was hailed by a man whom he knew as Au Kut-wan, doing a brokerage business of sorts, who enquired of him his business. They went to a tea-house, where Au confided to him that he knew of a European who could turn out "exquisite" imitations of the ten-dollar bills issued by the Hongkong & Shanghai Bank. The European was in business in a big way and would not take the trouble of selling less than $10,000 of such notes at a time.

A Sample Copy.

However, he (Au) would be able to arrange it with the European for a small amount to be made available to witness and he showed witness a "sample" copy of such forgeries, explaining that the printed area was wider on the counterfeit note than it was on the genuine article. The rate of exchange would be 60 per cent. of the face value of the forgeries, this after allowing for a special discount he (Au) was able to fix up with his friend the European.

Witness detailed what followed at subsequent meetings, and, coming to the doings of the 8th, said that on that day Au took him to No. 6 Caine Road, where they were ushered by a small boy into a sitting room on the ground floor, and in which they remained for 10 or 15 minutes. A European (witness identified him with the photograph of Guilherme Guimaraes) then appeared from upstairs, in company with an interpreter, and the question was asked witness if he was looking for "merchandise." Witness replied in the affirmative and produced $3,000 taken from the amount he was to have bought Saigon money with, and which he now handed to the European on the understanding that he was to have counterfeits to the face value of $5,000 in return. The European counted the money and then handed it to his interpreter, after which the latter left the room, ostensibly for the purpose of fetching the forgeries.

"Policeman" Appears.

Left with Au, and Guilherme Guimaraes, witness remained in the room for half-an-hour. Then another European (witness identified him as Leo Guimaraes) came in, and, demanding of witness "what he was doing there," gave witness to understand at the same time that he was a Police Inspector and produced a paper that appeared to be a warrant. The European searched the three men, and coming to Guilherme, spoke to him in a European language before taking him by the front of his jacket and leading him out of the room.

"I waited," said witness, "until 5 o'clock, asking Au what I should do, and he advised me to go away and return to-morrow for the money."

Witness spoke of repeated attempts made thereafter to secure the return of his money, first with Au's assistance, and, when the latter had disappeared, and was nowhere to be found, then by visits to the Caine Road address. On one occasion he was informed that the European seemingly arrested and taken away was still in Police custody, and on another, he was told by a Portuguese woman who came into the sitting room to speak to him while he was waiting there "not to come again" as the Police were still searching the house.

At another visit, made on July 23, he was not admitted, despite repeated knocking and ringing the bell and the same experience occurred two days later when the same boy as had admitted him on his first visit banged the door to as soon as he opened the door and saw who the caller was.

The Awakening.

Then it occurred to witness for the first time that he had been fooled, and he posted the following notice which he had prepared, on the door. "He (whoever may see the poster) is hereby respectfully informed that I have been swindled of $3,000 in this house, resulting in my family and livelihood being destroyed. What a grievance and detestation!"

The poster which the Crown said came into the possession of the Police, was produced in Court as an exhibit. Witness explained he did not sign his name to it, but had used the characters Lau Kong instead.

Lau Kong, it was explained to the Court, literally means "floating on a river." In other words the man who ventilated his complaint on the poster had described himself as a piece of "floats" or "a destitute left wandering on a foreign shore."

Continuing, witness said he did not see Leo Guimaraes again until the previous case came before the Court, when, on reading newspaper reports of the proceedings and having had his interest aroused by the similarity of that case with his, he came into Court and recognized the accused as the man who at the Caine Road address told him he was a Police Inspector.

SCENES DURING RECENT SEVILLE "WAR."

Open warfare between syndicalists and government forces brought about a proclamation of martial law in Seville, recently. Here are scenes during the bitter street fighting which resulted in 17 deaths and numerous injuries. Soldiers are shown, upper left, firing on Communist snipers who were hidden in balconies. A striker is seen, upper right, as police searched him for weapons. Artillery fire demolished the headquarters of the Seville syndicalists, and picture below shows fire men squelching the flames which enveloped the building.

Heart of Liane

by MABEL McELLIOTT

CHAPTER XXI

Cass looked strange and unfamiliar in her old black frock. It sat loosely on her, with that curious air of being a costume when donned by the convalescent. Her hair was nicely done, though, and in spite of her thinness and obvious air of frailty she looked well.

Liane said, "Mother, aren't you smart? Walking around this way." "I've told Miss Nesbit we won't need her any more," Cass said firmly. "Mrs. Cleespaugh wanted her to stay on but it's nonsense. I'm well as well can be. And so anxious to pay back my indebtedness."

Liane gave her a worried glance. "Dearest, you mustn't. The doctor says you're coming along splendidly but you're not able to get back into harness for a while." "Look, here, honey," said Cass with something of her old, capable manner. "I've been taking care of you, for those 19 summers and it's too late to turn the tables. Besides, I can't stay on here much longer. You've heard of wearing out one's welcome! Mrs. Cleespaugh has been fine and I appreciate it but there's no reason I should become a pensioner of hers."

Liane said faintly, "Perhaps there is a reason."

"What do you mean?"

"Clive wants me to marry him. Do you mind?"

"Clive?" said Cass, thunderstruck. "Young Mr. Cleespaugh? But you scarcely know him!"

"I know him well enough," Liane answered. "He's—he's awfully nice."

Cass played with her strand of imitation pearls. "You love him, honey?"

"I'm terribly fond of him," Liane told her honestly. "He's been splendid to me."

"That would solve everything," Cass murmured as if to herself. Her brow cleared. "I won't pretend, darling, that I haven't been worried about you. It's a battle, this life of ours, and you haven't had all the advantages I might have wished for you. This—why this would be wonderful! You'd never have to worry again."

She paused a moment. "A good marriage is what I've always wanted for you, Liane. Love and a fine young man. Not one of these jaundiced, old playboys one sees around—" She sighed. "Well, this is news!"

"You'll stay on then," Liane pleaded. "This does make a difference, doesn't it?"

"I suppose so," Cass agreed. "Although why it should honestly I don't know."

"Clive wants an early wedding, Liane faltered. "I hope you don't mind."

"The child talks of weddings and no engagement has even been announced," Cass laughed. Her colour had brightened. She looked younger than she had in months. "By the way, does Mrs. Cleespaugh know of it yet?"

"I think—I'm afraid, that is—that Clive is breaking the news this morning," Liane said.

"You're afraid? That's not a pleasant way to put it."

"She's rather—autocratic," said Liane, frowning. "She doesn't like plans she hasn't thought of first."

"Well, she'll love this plan. How could she help it?" asked Cass roundly.

"I hope you're right," Liane said. "I hope you're right," Liane said, glancing at her anxiously. "Honey child, you're certain this is what you want to do?" she inquired. "You're not—just plunging into it without thinking?"

Liane thrust from her the memory of Van Robard's proud dark face. "I know what I'm doing," she said firmly. "And it's what I want."

"I'm staying on, then," Cass decided.

Mrs. Cleespaugh held out a ringed hand to the girl. "Come in and tell me all about it," she said, not unkindly. Yet her red rimmed eyes testified to the scene at which Clive had briefly hinted.

"This boy of mine," she began, "has stolen a march on me, it seems. It appears a courting has been going on under my very eyes."

"We didn't mean to—deceive—" Liane faltered. "It's all been so sudden."

The old lady's eyes softened.

"My dear, I won't pretend I hadn't other plans for him because of course I had. Mothers usually do. But since my son has chosen, and here her old head went up, proudly, "since my son has chosen I shall abide by his choice."

Liane thanked her.

"You're very young," Mrs. Cleespaugh went on. "That's a point for you and against you. Clive is stubborn but he has a sweet nature if he's handled properly. You will have to learn that."

She adjusted her lognetto.

"Now about details. I am preparing an announcement for the newspapers which I shall submit for your mother's approval. We had better see to that at once since Clive tells me you wish to marry before the first of the year."

"I hope it can be a very quiet wedding," Liane said slowly.

"My dear, you must allow me to see to your trousseau," Mrs. Cleespaugh said kindly and firmly. "Your mother has had a difficult time of it."

"She is so proud. It hurts her to be under obligations to anyone," Liane explained.

"Well, well, we shall see about all that this afternoon," murmured the old lady abstractedly. "I shall wish to give a dinner party to celebrate the engagement. I wonder—it scarcely seems proper to keep you at your duties when you will soon be so busy with your own affairs—but I wonder if you will come to me for a list of guests after luncheon?"

"Of course," Liane murmured. "Shan't Williams, we must have," the old lady mused. "And your mother and John Burdick, and Van Robard, of course, with that impossible girl. Then there will be Tressa and Fanny and we shall have to get men for them. David Lester and Hart Watrous are at the Hunt Club for the month. We can ask them. We shall be 12 with you and Clive. I dislike a larger party."

Liane, making notes, nodded gravely. If the payment of formal parties opening before her dismayed her a little she gave no sign.

"You'll be needing frocks, too," the old lady observed. "I shall open accounts for you at Hende's and Chez Lisette and we can go into town one day this week for fittings."

"You are far too good to me," Liane murmured, turning to go. "The things I have will do quite well and I should be happier in my old things. This seems rather like sailing under false colours, doesn't it?"

"Nonsense, my dear," said the old lady decisively. "There's no point to that attitude. I should be very much displeased if you did not let me have my way in this."

Liane passed Clive in the hall. "All set?" he asked in a low voice. "All set," the girl returned with a cheerfulness she did not feel.

"Your mother's been so nice."

"I knew she would when she'd time to get used to the idea," he said satisfied. "She was a bit emotional when I told her, but then Mother thinks family crises are things to get emotional about."

"Is that what I am? A family crisis?" Liane asked smiling.

"You?" Blue eyes stared into dark ones. For an instant his fair head was very close to hers. "Shall I tell you what I think you are really?"

Liane tore her hand from his, breathless. "I think perhaps you'd better not. Not just now, at any rate."

She ran up the stairs, panting a little. "What a fool I am," she thought, derisively. "Why didn't I let him go on with what he wanted to say?"

Liane, in the rose room, was being arrayed for the engagement dinner. The simplicity of her velvet gown, ivory in tone, accentuated the young purity of her profile, the innocent curves of her budding figure. Cass, magnificent in violet, was looking her up.

"There. You're splendid," she observed cheerfully. "It's a sweet frock. It suits you."

Liane leaned back to catch her reflection in the mirror. "I'm—frightened," she said simply. Her great dark eyes were like limpid pools in the soft light.

"Frightened of what for heaven's sake?" Cass' laugh sounded unaffected.

"I don't know, quite."

"Well, I'm sure I don't. You're just fanciful. Be perfectly natural—just your own sweet self and everyone'll approve of you."

"All right. Mother, did Mr. Cleespaugh quiz you about the Barrett family tree?"

Cass coloured. "Oh, we did have a little talk," she said vaguely. "I gave her our pedigree and she liked it."

Liane had a flash of prescience. "She's keeping something back," she thought. She had a wild longing to know what it was. Some mystery lurked in her mother's consciousness. All she said was,

"I'm glad you settled the matter to her satisfaction."

"Now we really must go down," Cass said carelessly changing the subject. "Come along. You're perfect."

.....

Mrs. Cleespaugh had asked, majestically, "Do you know Mr. Robard?" and Cass had inclined her head ever so slightly. But Liane, narrowly watching, had seen her mother's colour change. There was a flurry of talk as Nora entered with the tray. In the chatter Cass managed to slip aside. Liane made her way through the group.

"Tired already dear?" she wanted to know.

Cass managed a strained smile. "Well, this is my first night out you know. I'll be all right directly."

"What does she know of him?" the girl wondered.

They went on to the club to dance. Cass begged off, pleading a headache.

"I hate to leave you," Liane murmured.

"Nonsense," Cass told her roundly. "I won't have you spoiling the party. Mrs. Amberton will chaperone you."

Tressa's lips curled faintly and Liane flushed. The gallant Mr. Williams interposed.

"Soon you'll be a matron, needing no chaperone."

Van Robard smiled mockingly at Liane. "No one to say you nay, then," he said softly.

The colour flamed in the girl's face anew. What power this man had to wound her or make her happy! She felt she almost hated him.

If you've good ideas

—so have we. But we don't allow them to run riot on so conservative a subject as men's clothing. We've good ideas about the cloth which our customers want, and really excellent notions about how they want that cloth cut and sewn.

If you've a good idea of the cloth and cut and character which is part and parcel of a good suit, we've an idea that you are going to be our customer soon.

We shall be pleased to discuss this matter with you personally—with our new Autumn patterns between us.

WONGNEICHUNG ACCIDENT.

INQUIRY INTO LANDSLIDE FATALITY.

On the resumption of the inquiry before Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court yesterday, into the death of one of the workmen who lost his life in the recent landslide at Wongneichung, it was stated that the shacks in which the unfortunate man had slept were only four or five feet in height and were not covered by a permit from the authorities.
Mr. F. C. Neville, Overseer of the Public Works Department, was recalled and said that as far as he knew the shacks had no permits. They were rough shacks about four or five feet high. If witness had known they were used for occupation by the workmen he would have reported it to the Engineer. No permits would have been issued for such shacks. It was the duty of the Land Bailiff to see that the occupants had permits. He thought that the Bailiff had already taken some action in clearing the locality of illegal shacks.
The inquiry was adjourned until Tuesday afternoon for the evidence of the Land Bailiff.

THE INTERPORT AQUATICS.

TIENTSIN MAN'S RECORD IN 220 YARDS.

Shanghai, Sept. 10.
The French Club was crowded to its full capacity for the triangular inter-club swimming meet.
The 220 yards free style event was won by Nigelnitzky (Tientsin), second and Lawrence (Hongkong) third.
Nigelnitzky led all the way, and won by four lengths. He established a Shanghai record of 2 min. 39 4/6 sec.
Perelra was fully five yards behind the winner, and Lawrence three yards further back.
The throwing the polo ball was won by Wong (Hongkong) with 70 feet, 1 inch.
Tuttieman (Shanghai) was second, with 67ft. 9ins., and Read (Shanghai) third with 66ft. 6ins.
Lawrence was substituted for Laing in this event. Wong won with his second throw.

Shanghai Victories.

The 100 yards breast stroke was won by Hagenstein (Shanghai).

THE "TELEGRAPH" ART SUPPLEMENT.

Hankow Flood and Other Pictures.

To-morrow's issue of the Telegraph Pictorial Supplement will contain many illustrations of topical interest. Amongst these will be many showing scenes at Hankow during the disastrous floods. There will also appear another batch of entries in our August Bathing Beach Snap-shot Competition. The last of these will be published on the 19th instant, when the result of the competition will be announced.

Other pictures in to-morrow's issue will include a group taken at the wedding of Sergeant J. Landau and Miss Mary Wilson, a photo of the new motor ship Mui-nam, and some further pictures of typhoon wreckage on the Praya.

Harris (Shanghai) was second, and Fornita (Hongkong) third. The event was won by three lengths, in 50 1/5 seconds, which is a Shanghai record.

Fornita was a whole yard behind second man.

In the water polo, Shanghai beat Tientsin by 5 goals to one. Prodan scored for Tientsin. At half time Shanghai led by 2 to one.

In a local event to-day, in preparation for to-morrow's big event, Con-off did a noteworthy plunge of 72 feet, 7 inches.

The Interport contest will be continued to-morrow evening. The sources at present are:

ANNUAL PICNIC FOR THE BLIND. APPEAL MADE FOR ASSISTANCE.

The St. Peter's Group of the Victorian Diocesan Missionary Association has in the past four years organised, with the assistance of generous friends, a summer picnic for the girls of the Blind Home, Pokfulam. The picnic has taken the nature of a motor ride to Shek-O when the girls, generally about 60 in number, are given tea and a small present each.

It has been decided to follow the same plan this year, the picnic to take place on Saturday afternoon, October 17th.

The Committee organising the picnic would gratefully welcome the loan of cars or donations. Offers and gifts should be sent to Mrs. F. E. Booker, Harbour View, Hospital Road, or to the Rev. L. N. Watkins, St. John's Cathedral.

HONGKONG BEATEN.

SHANGHAI WINS POLO BY 9 TO 3.

(Our Own Correspondent.)

Shanghai, Sept. 10.
Shanghai won the Interport polo match with Hongkong by 9 goals to 3. McMichael was the outstanding player.

A record crowd watched the contest, which commenced at 4.30.

The visitors, owing to the flooding of the field, had had only one day's work-out, and their ponies prior to the match were reported to be rather stiff.

The Hongkong team consisted of D. L. Newbigging, who captained the side; Major D. Summerville (South Wales Borderers), at back; Lieut. Dunlop, A. and S. Highlanders (No. 2); and Lieut. Bramwell, A. and S. Highlanders (No. 1).

Mr. J. A. Hughes and Capt. Martin, 5th Fusiliers, acted as umpires and Brice Gen. E. B. Macnaghten as referee.

A Reuter message reports that Bramwell, Dunlop and Newbigging scored for the losers, for whom Lieut. Dunlop gave the best display. The match was played in the weather. Shanghai meets Peking on Saturday.

GOLF as the STARS play it

LIKE ABE MITCHELL, "WILD BILL" MEHLHORN KEEPS BOTH FEET ON THE GROUND UNTIL AFTER IMPACT, WHEN SWINGING THE MASHIE.

Is there any transfer of weight from right to left in mashie play?

According to Abe Mitchell, British veteran, there is no real transfer of weight from right to left foot in the playing of a mashie shot. Consequently, Mitchell sees no need for standing far from the ball. He hits down on the ball, the clubhead always going forward straight after the ball. Don't try to scoop up the ball. The left of the mashie will take care of the pitch. Keep the feet on the ground without lifting either heel. Make the arms do the work with just a little pivot of the hips and shoulders as an aid.—ART KRENZ.

HONGKONG BOXING ASSOCIATION.

SUCCESSFUL 1930 SEASON REPORTED.

A very successful 1930 season was reported at the annual meeting of the Hongkong Boxing Association, held in Messrs. Jardine, Matheson's board room yesterday, when Mr. R. M. Dyer, president, supported by Mr. G. S. Hugh Jones, Hon. Secretary.

Mr. Dyer proposed the adoption of the report and accounts, the Chairman said: "Gentlemen:—The report and accounts for the past year having been in your hands for several days I will with your permission take them as read."

Profit on Tournaments.
The result of the last season was very much more satisfactory than the previous two or three seasons and you will observe from the accounts that the tournaments showed a profit of $1,488.11 as against $497.89 for the previous year and a loss of $984.39 for the year ending 30th June 1930. It is regrettable however that the General Account shows a loss of $34.95. It is usually hoped that the subscriptions of members will cover general expenses but the membership has fallen off and a number of subscriptions are in arrears. The secretary has been instructed to issue a circular asking for new members and to endeavour to collect all arrears. It is hoped that all members will themselves try to interest others in the Association and get new members.

During the season under review, four most successful tournaments were held and the Theatre Royal was generally filled to capacity. The names of the winners of the Championship appear in the printed report of the Committee which you have before you.

Good Prospects.
The prospects for the coming season are good and the Report shows that there is a considerable amount of talent in H. M. Navy most of which is new to the Colony. It will not, of course, be possible to hold a tournament until the Navy returns to Hongkong.

Up to and including the end of the last season the accounts of the Association have very kindly been audited by Mr. J. Fleming but he now regrets that owing to the general increase of professional fees he cannot continue to audit the accounts in an honorary capacity and he has kindly consented to continue to audit the accounts for an annual fee of $100.

Owing to the illness of the honorary secretary and treasurer, Mr. J. T. Prior kindly undertook to act for him and we are most grateful to him for his assistance.

I now beg to propose that the Report and Accounts for the year ending 30th June 1931 as presented be adopted and I shall be obliged if some member will kindly second such proposal whereupon questions as to the Report and Accounts may be raised.

The report was seconded by Mr. C. Bond, and unanimously adopted.

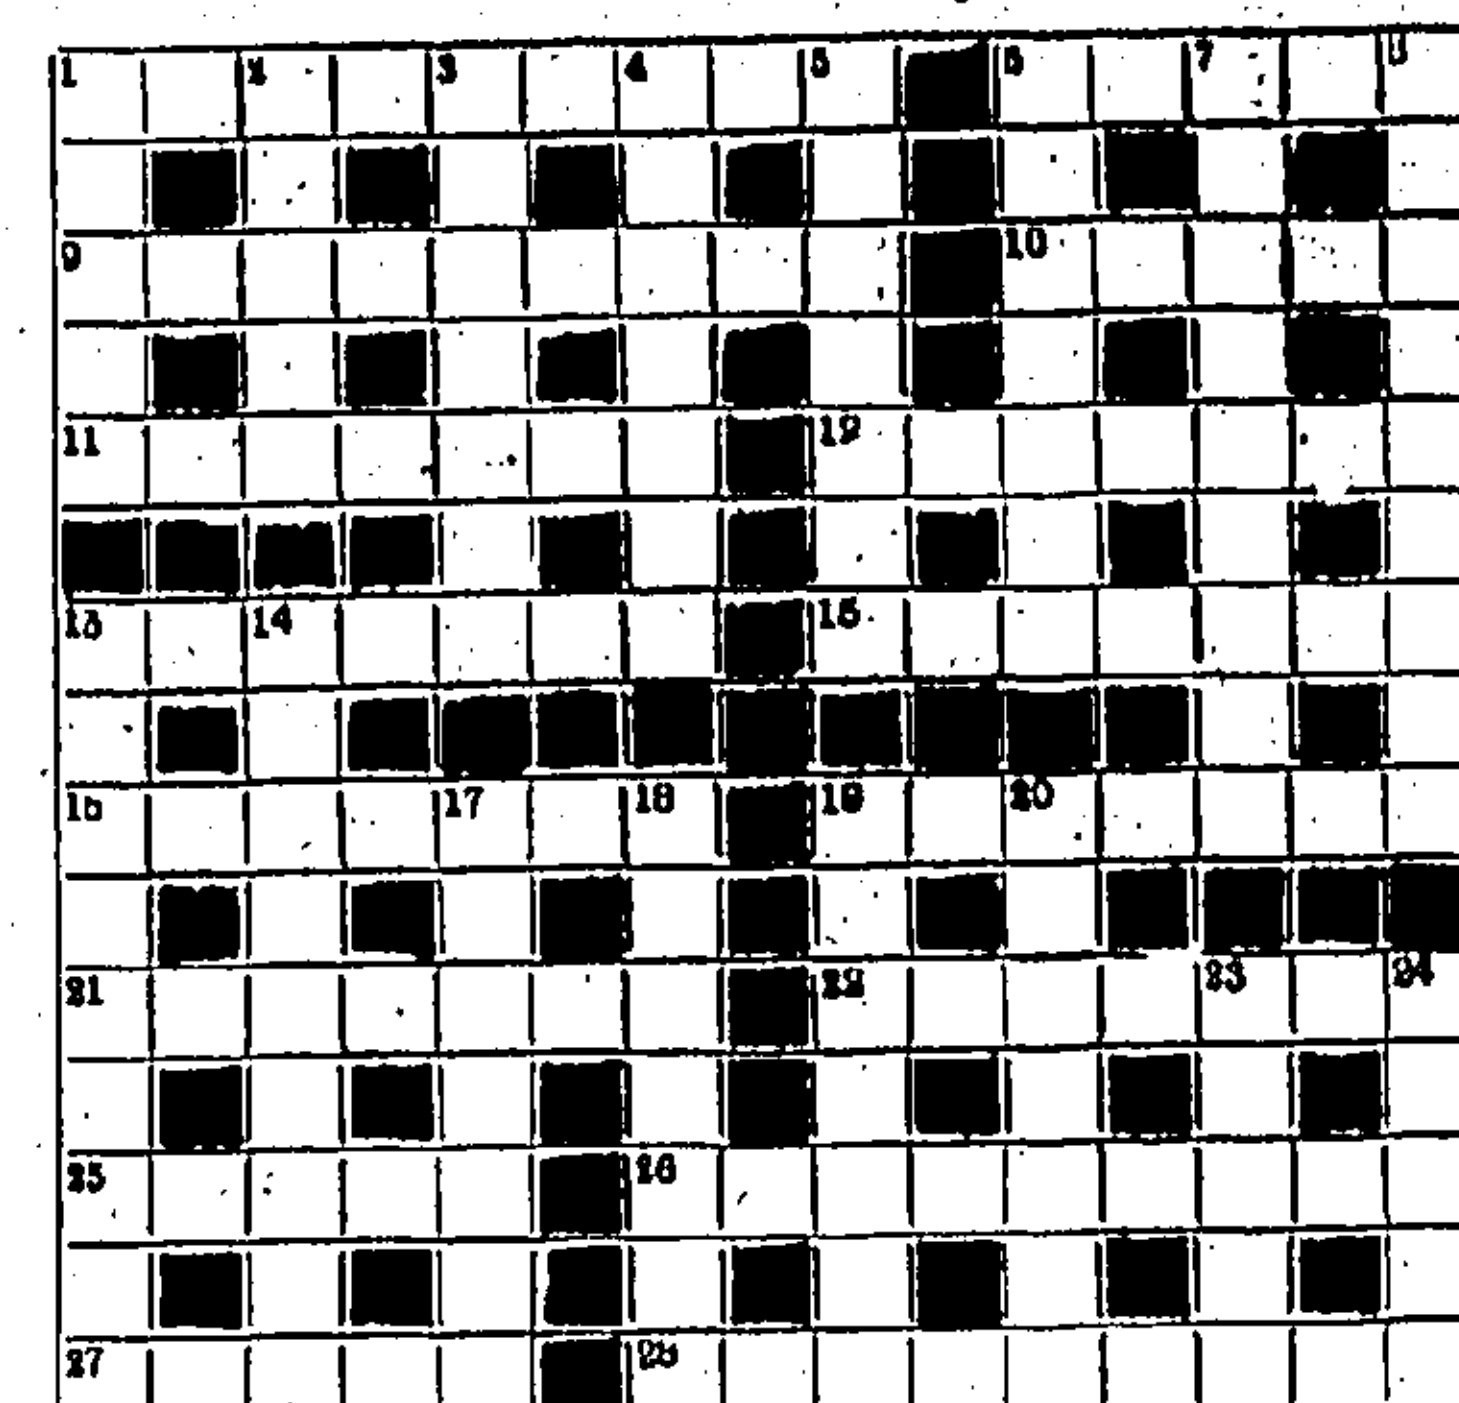

The following were then re-elected:—Chairman, Mr. R. M. Dyer; Vice-chairman, Mr. J. Scott Harrison; Official Referee, Mr. A. Murdoch; Manager, Mr. J. Brooks; Hon. Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. G. S. Hugh Jones; Auditor, Mr. J. Fleming; Civilian members of the general committee, Messrs. H. G. Sheldon, G. G. N. Tinsin, W. Ward, A. W. Grimmett, and C. Bond. The three Army, three Navy and one Police representatives have to be nominated.

THORBURN CASE. CHINESE STILL MAKING ENQUIRIES.

London, Sept. 10.
The question of the disappearance of John Thorburn was again raised in the House of Commons. Sir Charles Gwyer asked whether the additional enquiry ordered by Mr. Shaw-Chang Kai-shek into the matter had brought to light any fresh information as to Thorburn's whereabouts or fate.

Mr. Eden (the Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs) replied that the enquiry had not yet been completed. The Chinese Government had reported that it was progressing satisfactorily, and a report could be expected before the end of the month. Sir Miles Lampson had pressed the Chinese Foreign Minister for a report at the earliest possible moment, and had made known his disappointment at the delay on the part of the Chinese authorities.—Reuter.

STICKLERS

A pair of scales balance when one side contains five cubical weights and three cones and the other side contains three cubes and six cones. The cubes are uniform in weight and so are the cones. Suppose all eight cubes are shifted to one side. How many cones will be needed on the other side to balance the eight cubes?

TYPHOON SCANDAL.

It's an ill wind that blows
nobody any good, runs the old saw, and it seems likely to be borne out in connection with last week's typhoon "blow." The worst sufferers, practically the only serious sufferers, were the junk people. So severely were they hit, in fact, that a scandal of long standing was more clearly exposed and there is a prospect of a remedy for the future which should compensate them to some extent for their losses. The reference, of course, is to the activities of small steam launches before and after the blow. The sudden development of the gale illustrated by the unusually rapid change of signals found large numbers of junks far away from the shelters and unable to make their way unaided through the increasing seas. Only by employing launches could they make safety, and the launches prepared for a rich harvest, (doing an excellent if absolutely necessary work at the same time) in the absence of Government provision for the protection of fishing and cargo craft.

Unfortunately, the launch crews were not content with being well paid. Many a junk was left at the mercy of the wind and sea because of a refusal to pay the extortionate sum demanded, and there is reason to believe that numbers of those that foundered were sacrificed by this form of ghoulish commercialism in time of calamity. Something must be done to prevent a recurrence and it has been suggested by the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce that the Sampan and Junk Owners Association, the Insurance companies and the Chamber should combine to provide small tugs, four in number,
for rescue work in the circumstances described. It is a worthy proposal deserving the support of organisations distinct from those mentioned, if necessary, it would, to a considerable extent, prevent private craft from prey-ing on the misfortunes of sailing craft. In normal circumstances, four tugs would be capable of handling the situation without difficulty.

In conditions such as prevailed last week, however, the task would be beyond even ten tugs to remove all threatened junks to safety, and Mr. Chau Yue-teng's suggestion that the Government be approached with a recommendation to make regulations requiring steam launches to go to the assistance of junks in distress, is one which ought to be followed up. Anywhere else, one would imagine, ordinary human feelings would make such regulations unnecessary. Locally, they seem to be demanded.

Disarmament.

Apart from the moral issues involved, the forthcoming World Disarmament Conference, to be held at Geneva early next year, will attract much attention. Just now, most nations of the world are attempting the utmost economy in national expenditure.
It is quite natural, therefore, that thoughts should turn on a world agreement to limit the spending of huge sums on non-productive enterprises. There is the further point that inasmuch as practically all countries have renounced war,
no valid reason exists why States should be burdened with the upkeep of large armies and navies.
The Conference is naturally linked with the lessons of the Great War, concerning which we may expect to hear a deal for many years to come. The other day, Mr. Newton D. Baker, former U.S. Secretary for War, had some pointed comments on this question. "The first great revelation of the World War," said Mr. Baker
"was that the strongest nation, under modern conditions, dies like a bee, when it uses its sting. The second great revelation of the World War was undoubtedly the universality of the disaster." And the second point Mr. Baker amplified as follows: "The song of the victor, as he contemplated his victim sitting in the ashes of desolation, died in his throat when he remembered the cost of his victory."

There were too many widows' weeds mingled with the torch-bearers in the victory parade, too many mutilated men seeking limited re-admission to factories and workshops, particularly there was too much dislocation in the processes of international industry and finance to permit any nation to feel itself safe from an overwhelming share in the common disaster. "Intelligent men have been saying precisely these things ever since the Armistice. Except that he has put it very forcefully, Mr. Baker has said nothing new. But the amazing thing is that the nations seem unable to shape their policies in accordance with these evident truths. Everyone admits that war is about as costly to the victor as the vanquished—but every nation keeps on preparing for future wars. Fleets, armies and air forces continue to grow; admirals and generals continue to talk about "security"; congresses and parliaments continue to insist on "adequate defence"—and these mocking truths continue to be ignored. The big task to-day is to understand that the old use of force in international affairs does not work any longer. When we all come to realise that "the strongest nation dies like the bee,
when it uses its sting," disarmament schemes can be expected to go forward rapidly.

DETAILS FOR WEST, NORTH
AND EAST RIVERS.

The following table, issued by the Kwangtung River Conservancy Commission, shows in English feet the water levels on the West River, North River and East River on the dates named:

	Sept. 9	Sept. 10
West River at Shihling	15.2	14.2
North River at Samshui	14.3	11.9
North River at Talingyuen	10.5	9.6
East River at Sheklung	10.9	11.3

The highest levels recorded are:
Shihling, 41 feet; Talingyuen, 29.2
feet; Samshui, 27.3 feet; Sheklung, 11.5 feet.

The lowest levels on record are minus 5 feet at Samshui and minus
2.7 feet at Sheklung.

Quarantine restrictions have been imposed by Hongkong against arrivals from Shanghai on account of cholera.

Two Chinese cases of typhoid were noticed by the health authorities yesterday. Both were from Kowloon.

The first dance of the Season will be given by the Naval and Military
Y.M.C.A. (Cheero Club) in the City Hall on Monday, 19th October, 1931
at 9.30 p.m.

A concrete hood of a building under construction at Saikung Road collapsed yesterday, injuring Ting Shing, a mason, and causing his admission into hospital.

Tepping off his seat through the motor-lorry on which he was being given a lift, yesterday, while in Hongkong Road yesterday an anti-carrier named Wong Sau fractured his right leg, and had to go into hospital.

Chan On, living at 41, Eastern Street, was removed yesterday to hospital by the police at No. 7 Station who were informed that the man had been injured through falling off a tramcar at Connaught Road West.

A domestic quarrel between a married couple at 303, Reclamation Street, took a tragic turn yesterday, when the man took a chopper and assaulted his wife with it, inflicting a gash in her head. He then ran from the house, escaping before the arrival of the police. The woman was removed to the Kwong Wah Hospital.

The monthly report of the Hongkong Broadcasting Committee for August shows that the actual hours of transmission totalled 245.50, of which 139.75 were devoted to European programmes and 105.75 to Chinese programmes. The monthly percentages were—European, 56.92;
Chinese, 43.08. New Licences issued during August totalled 50.

Cadets Tseng I-shiang, Kung Yu and Yen Pei-chuen, graduates of the Central Military Academy in Nanking, are aboard the P. & O. a.s.
Cathay, which arrived here to-day from Shanghai. They are bound for England to continue their training.
This is the second group of Chinese cadets to undergo British training for commissioned rank. Selected from among 200 candidates in an examination conducted by the Office of the Inspector General of Military Training of the National Government in May this year, the three cadets are to enroll either in the Royal Military Academy at Woolwich or the Royal Military College at Sandhurst.

Are You the Murderer?

By J. C. CANNELL.

A murder has been committed.
There is a description of the mur-derer—the police throughout the country are looking for him.
They find a suspect—you may look very much like him.
Suppose you do—and are one of those invited to the identity parade—

If you want to know what it feels like to be a criminal,
who deserves to be hanged, just contrive to get yourself into an identification parade.
Not that it will be difficult. In these days of crime, when at any time you may be stopped in the street by a police detective with the request that you assist the cause of justice by accompanying him to the police station "just to make up the party of twelve."

Mind you, this will be only a courteous invitation, but like me,
when so invited the other day,
you will make a number of excuses and finally consent, out of sheer curiosity.

"What happens if I am identified as the criminal?" was the question I fired at the detective as we walked towards a West End police station.

He smiled and answered, "Everyone asks that question, and the answer is that the parade would be regarded as a failure if you were picked out. No suspicion would attach to you."

I grunted, and by that time we had reached the police station.
A swift glance around showed me that detectives can be as diplomatic as those motor-coach conductors at the seaside whose arithmetic is not as strong as their enthusiasm to get "just one more
—and then we're off."

We were far from being "off" in the identification parade, and so I sat down and smoked while I looked at five other members of the British public whose burning desire that justice should triumph was no less than mine.

Three of them thought of it as a great lark; one was shaking nervously, and another, an actor, as I afterwards discovered, looked as though he were about to step on to the stage to play Hamlet. He held his hand on his chest, and I expected that at any moment he would stand up and recite.

"Serious business, this," he said to me. I nodded and looked wise, as I always do when I cannot think of something to say.
The detectives were as assiduous as the seaside excursion experts, and soon five other men walked into the police station. We were ready to take the risk of being pointed out as the desperate cat burglar who had made a haul of diamonds from a mansion.

A woman had seen the criminal for a few moments and it was she who would inspect us. We took off our hats, as the cat burglar was hatless when seen, and he,
exercising his right, chose his place among the others like a card
—say, the knife of diamonds—that wishes to vanish.

The woman who hoped to find his position in the pack was waiting in another room.

As we lined up I glanced at the others. Each reacted in a different way to the situation, but the cat burglar, suspected also of being concerned, previously, in a murder, was calm.

"If you see the man just touch him," the woman was instructed by the detective. She walked slowly in front of us, looking closely into our faces. Then she stopped—in front of me.

I looked straight ahead and tried to appear as much like an honest man as possible, though I did not feel at all successful in the attempt. Then the woman shook her head and walked on to the end of the row.

She had failed to identify the man, a fact of which he would later make the most. It is not easy, you see, to pick out from twelve men of similar build a crook whom you have seen for only a few seconds.

Old "legs" often choose the first place in the line on the principle that the person called to "touch the man" does not usually expect to find the culprit standing first in the row, but looks more keenly at the men in the middle.

It is no laughing matter this identity parade business, for tomorrow or the day after you may be picked out as a murderer.

POMPEY'S PICKING UP.

By C. B. POULTNEY.

POMPEY opened his eyes and then yawned. "Hoo-hoo!"
he went, and stretched himself lazily. Then he looked over and caught my eye. "Hullo!" he grin-
ned. "Writing about me?"

"I'm trying to," I admitted, "but it's rather difficult. You see, it's so hard to tell how you really are, you know. I mean, you seem to vary so, don't you?"

"No, I don't," he declared, looking rather injured. "I'm getting better and better every day. Tell everybody so, from me."

"My dear chap," I said, "I'd like to tell them that very much—but would it be strictly true? There's no getting away from it, you do go up and down. Yesterday, for instance, you didn't seem to take any interest in anything."

"Didn't I?" he asked, surprised.
"That's queer. Are you quite sure?"

"Certain," I told him firmly.
"Don't you remember our walk?
When we got to the corner you turned round and came home of your own accord; and later on you watched Pat finish your dinner and never said a word. Does that sound like one who is getting better and better every day?"

"Ho-shook-himself—impatiently."
"Oh, we don't want to talk about yesterday," he protested, "yesterday was years ago. Look at me to-day," and he jumped down from the armchair, staggered slightly,
and then advanced rather shakily towards me. "There you are, you see," he announced. "I'm fine!"

"Well," I admitted, "I'm thankful to say that you certainly do appear a little more steady on your pins, old chap," and I twiddled his ears. "Hullo!" I said suddenly, as I eyed him. "What's that back leg wobbling for?"

He glanced round at the offending member. "Why, so it is," he said in surprised tones. "How silly of it. Anyway, that doesn't prove—"

Yes—He's Better.

"Oh, yes it does," I retorted. "It proves you're not as strong as you think you are, my fine fellow. You still want plenty of rest."

He rolled his eyes. "Oh, gosh!"
he muttered. "How sick I am of that word rest!" and he sat down and brooded heavily. Then he got up and waddled over to his basket.

"Going to bed again," I thought;
but I was wrong, for after a moment he appeared again with his ball. He put it down in the middle of the floor and regarded it as if it were quite a stranger—as indeed it was; then he reached out and gave it a prod. It rolled away and Pompey lumbered over it. Twice he nosed it round the room, and then he came over and batted my knee.

"See that?" he asked proudly.
"I'm quite well!" and just then Patrick the cat came sauntering in, with all the assurance born of three weeks of immunity from ambush or assault.

"Hullo!" he remarked. "Ball, eh?" And he went over and patted
it carelessly.

"Hi!" shouted an outraged voice. "Leave that ALONE!" and next instant the startled cat had been bundled into the garden again, while Pompey, panting but triumphant, was trotting the ball in the fastness of his bed.

It's been a rotten long job; but I really think he's convalescent at last.

GOVERNOR UPHELD.

(b) There can be several writs of execution in force against a person at the same time, and there may be a simultaneous arrest under all. There may also be a concurrent committal warrant. Why may there not be concurrent deportation orders?

(c) The first order in this case was invalid, and a nullity, and the Court had clearly indicated that view before the second order was made.

(d) Section 4b of the Ordinance seems in any case to conclude the question, for I think that "proceedings" there includes "order".

No Abuse of Power.

The second deportation order was also attacked on the ground that the summary order was admittedly made from an extraneous motive, i.e. to supply the place of a long procedure order which was obviously invalid, and that this was an abuse of the power conferred by the sub-section.

The Chief Justice said he did not agree. He thought the motive was immaterial. "I think that we must assume, at least until the contrary is proved, that the Governor-in-Council thought it conducive to the public good that this applicant should not remain in the Colony, and the assumption is a very natural one if the Governor-in-Council thought the main charge proved."

The second deportation order was also attacked on the ground that it "was not made at a duly convened or constituted meeting of the Governor-in-Council." The facts were that the Executive Council, in full Council, conditionally advised on 12th August that an order should be made under section 3 (1) (c) if the order under section 3 (2) proved invalid.

Quite Regular.

The Governor actually made the order on the 15th August. This seems to me quite regular. The act of the Governor-in-Council is the act of the Governor and not the act of the Executive Council. It is he who makes the order, after taking the advice of the Council, but not necessarily in accordance with that advice.

Referring to other objections to the second deportation order raised by Mr. Jenkin (a) that evidence was improperly admitted and (b) on one piece of misleading and untrue evidence on an important point, the Chief Justice said he thought the first objection failed, but the second objection was more serious.

"Grave Mistake."

The "questions and answers" erroneously represented that the applicant at first admitted that his name was Nguyen Ai Quoc, but afterwards denied it. It is obvious that this grave mistake may have heavily weighted the case against the applicant.

His Lordship thought it could be properly said that that His Excellency the Governor would always be ready to reconsider any deportation order if it were pointed out to him that the evidence previously submitted to him was untrue and misleading on an important point. He need scarcely say that the Governor was the sole judge as to the proper decision on any such reconsideration, should it take place.

Not a Sham.

Mr. Jenkin also argued that the deportation order was a sham, in that, under the cloak of deportation, the Executive was attempting to surrender the applicant to the French authorities for an offence of a political character; that even if the deportation was itself valid because such duplicity was not disclosed on its face, the ship orders at least were invalid and masked an illegality, and that the Court could prevent such a misuse of Executive power.

In the present case, said his Lordship, they could not possibly regard the order as a sham as they would require very clear evidence for that purpose. The evidence pointed to the conclusion that a deportation order was a perfectly genuine one, dictated by the policy of the Deportation Ordinance.

Governor's Powers.

Again, there was no evidence that the deportation order, including the ship orders endorsed upon it, was to be used to enable some illegal act to be done. The Governor's powers under Section 6 were clear, "and we are not the judges of how he should use them."

Referring to the Crown's stand on Section 5 of the Deportation Ordinance, by which it was alleged that this section rendered any previous illegal custody, legal, his Lordship said that, after anxious thought, he had come to the conclusion that the section did have the effect of converting a previous unlawful custody into a lawful custody upon and from service of a valid deportation order.

Need for Care.

Referring to one of two points of practice, his Lordship said he

join another.

Should an Officer leave the sea or leave the service of a "Pension Contributing Company," he would have the option of continuing his own contributions for such Pension as they would secure.

Retiring Age of 65.

The scheme anticipates a retiring age of 65. Adjusted pensions will be provided for retirement before 65, or after 65, on a table to be prepared and agreed between the Central Body and the panel of Life Officers.

An Officer leaving the scheme prior to pensionable age would have the option:—(a) of receiving a return of his own contributions at 3% compound interest, or (b) of pension, free of further contribution for such sum as his own and the employer's contributions have secured to date. If an employee takes his own contributions back with interest, the employer's contributions could be returned to the Central Body for the purpose of discretionary additional benefits, or (c) of continuing his contributions and securing additional pension in accordance with the tables.

In the event of the death of a contributing Officer his contributions will be payable to his personal representatives with 3 per cent. compound interest.

Five Years Assured.

Under the scheme, pensions would be payable for a minimum period of five years from retirement, and, of course, until the death of the pensioner. It will thus be seen that if an Officer should die shortly after reaching retiring age, his widow or personal representatives would receive a pension for at least five years.

The scheme does not apply to Officers at present reaching retiring age, but a Senior Officer joining the scheme when 50 years of age, earning a salary of £400 per annum, would receive a pension of £81 6s. 8d. per annum at 65.

The pension of a Senior Officer who joined the scheme when 60 years of age, and whose salary was £400 per annum, would only receive the small pension of £21 13s. 4d. per annum at 65.

Examples of Pensions.

The scheme, of course, will be of most benefit to those who are able to join it at comparatively early age.

Examples are given of the pensions, from which it is noted that a Third Officer joining the scheme when 23 years of age, and having a specified subsequent career rising to master, would have a guaranteed pension of £406 19s.; a Second Officer joining the scheme at 27 would have £327 10s.; and a Chief Officer joining the scheme at 35 would have £217 17s.

thought it very desirable that officers who had to interview under Section 3 (a), persons who had been detained with a view to deportation, should receive instructions as to their powers and duties under the Ordinance. The need for great care and strict adherence to legal powers in deportation cases was always greater because the tribunal was secret, and much of the proceedings were hidden, even from the accused person.

His Lordship then declared that the order now addressed to the Superintendent of Prisons would be discharged, and application for order nisi addressed to the Inspector General of Police would be refused.

Mr. Justice Lindsell, in a brief written judgment, concurred with the finding of the Chief Justice.

Notice of Appeal.

Mr. Jenkin then said he had a notice of motion ready to be filed for an application for leave to appeal to the Privy Council. He pointed out that under the Privy Council rules, if the notice required were given, the earliest date would be Friday, the 18th, but he asked the Attorney General either to waive the notice, or if he did not or could not, then to give an undertaking that Sung Man-cho would be deported until the motion had been heard, the present order being for next Tuesday.

Mr. Alabaster agreed to waive the notice and their Lordships decided to hear the application tomorrow morning at 11.30 so as to dispose of it before the present order expires.

Giving judgment on the question of costs as relating to the case of Li Sam, the Chief Justice said in the circumstances he did not think they could give costs against the Superintendent of Prisons, even assuming they had power to do so, a point which he wished to reserve.

MR. SNOWDEN'S BUDGET.

debt, the net deficit this year was £74,500,000.

Mr. Snowden estimated the deficit on a full year from next April, if no changes were made in the present provision for revenue and expenditure, at £170,000,000.

Country Must Face Up.

Therefore, large economies were essential and so were heavy increases in taxation. The country must face up to position. The proposals for economy are given in a White Paper and Mr. Snowden did not go into details, but he emphasized that nine tenths of the items proposed were adopted and approved by the late Labour Cabinet before its resignation.

The Economies together with the decision to reduce the sinking fund left the Chancellor with a net deficit on the current year of £39,000,000 to be provided for by additional taxation as already detailed.

ECONOMY PLANS.

The Government's economy proposals set out in the White Paper, secure reductions in expenditure estimated at £22, in the current financial year and saving of £70, 932,000 in a full year.

The largest saving is effected under the heading of unemployment insurance. The reduction of expenditure amounts in a full year to £25,800,000, taking the fact that the income of the Fund is to be supplemented by increases in the contributions of the employers and workmen, aggregating ten millions.

Benefit Reductions.

This result is mainly achieved by a reduction of the weekly benefit rates, except that for a dependent child, by ten percent. The benefit of an unemployed single man is thus reduced from seventeen shillings to 15.3 weekly, corresponding cuts being made in other rates. The saving from this reduction is £12,800,000.

The increase of the weekly contributions by employers and employees to the transitional class will produce a saving of ten million pounds. The removal of anomalies will effect a further £3,000,000 economy.

There will, in future, be no borrowing beyond the statutory limit already authorised, and any sum required to balance the accounts of the unemployment fund will come out of current revenue.

The saving to the Exchequer of all these proposals total £35,800,000.

Other Economies.

Other economies include Education grants, Day, etc. £10,200,000; Road Fund, nearly 8 millions; defence services in addition to other reduction, £3,600,000; pensions £5,000,000; salaries of Ministers, Members of Parliament, civil servants and members of defence services, over 4½ millions; health ministry, 1½ millions; unemployment grant, £500,000; police, £500,000; agriculture and forestry together, over one million, and Empire marketing board and Colonial Development fund, £250,000 each.

Regarding salary reductions, ministerial salaries will receive cuts ranging from 20% in cases of £5,000 per annum and over, to ten per cent. in cases under £2,000 pounds a year.

Allowances to Members of the Commons will be reduced by ten per cent.

Civil Service Cuts.

Regarding the remuneration of members of the Crown Services, those whose pay is over £2,000 year will receive a ten per cent. cut, and 20% if pay is £5,000 or over yearly.

Members receiving under £2,000 will be treated in accordance with the recommendations of the Committee of National Expenditure and only the cuts in the cost of living bonus will be operative.

Regarding the defence services, the economy of £5,000,000, exclusive of savings on pay and pensions is aimed at though it is recognised that this will be difficult in view of the extensive reductions made during recent years.

Regarding education, a fifteen per cent. cut in teachers' salaries is imposed, which accounts for nearly £6,000,000 of the total saving of £10,200,000.

The economies in pay take effect from October 1st.

Opposition's Criticism.

The opposition's criticism of the Budget was voiced by Mr. William Graham, late President of the Board of Trade, who said the May report did Great Britain very serious damage abroad.

He did not dispute that the new taxation had been distributed over a very wide field, but the Chancellor, he said, had not given a complete picture to show that the economy and taxation proposals together constituted the promised "equality of sacrifice."

He declared there was abundant reason in the existing circum-

POPULAR POLICE OFFICER.

SERGT. CONDON LEAVING TO-MORROW.

KEEN SPORTSMAN.

A very wide circle of friends will learn with regret of the almost immediate departure for Home of Sergeant P. J. Condon, of the Hongkong Police Force, following a long spell of illness, upon his being invalided out of the Force.

In the course of his career Mr. Condon has made himself extremely popular, not only by reason of his geniality, but also by his sterling qualities as a colleague and a friend and his attainments as an all-round sportsman. The name of Condon, in fact, is one with which to conjure up all that the Police Force have performed in the realm of sports, for "Pat", as he is endearingly called by his colleagues, is not only a keen boxer and one who has made ring history during his time, but he is also an excellent footballer, a cricketer, tennis-player and bowls player. Briefly, there is no line of sport to which he has not been interested.

In the sphere of his official duties, Mr. Condon has been equally alert and capable.

Patric J. Condon, native of Battersea, joined the Police Force on July 12, 1919, at the age of 23 years. Applying himself with assiduity to his duties, he secured his First A.I. Badge in August, 1921, in addition to qualifying as a machine gunner and drill instructor and motor-driver, promoted full Sergeant in 1923, he distinguished himself two years later on the occasion of the P. Hing Fung disaster and during the succeeding strike period, being commended by H.E. the Governor at the annual Police Inspection. At about this time, he was placed on emergency duty on the S. Tai Lee, after having been transferred to the Guards Office, and also acted as a Station Officer of the Fire Brigade. His last Station was Yauwatt, whence he went into hospital last month on the recurrence of an old trouble.

Mr. Condon sails on the P. & O. Cathay to-morrow, carrying with him the good wishes of many friends for a speedy recovery at Home.

stances for complaint and his party believed, even in these times, that the budget could be balanced without attacks upon unemployment insurance benefits or on education.

Text of Bill.

The text of the Government's economy bill which was given a first reading in the House of Commons on Wednesday, was issued to-night. It empowers His Majesty the King, for a month after the Act comes into force, to make such Orders-in-Council as appear necessary for the purpose of effecting economies in respect of the following services:

Education,
National Health Insurance,
Police,
Unemployment Insurance,
Roads.

Luxury Prohibition.

Following a suggestion made by Mr. Walter Runciman, Liberal, in the course of the evening's Budget discussion, the Government has appointed a committee of three to examine the practicability of absolutely prohibiting the importation of luxury articles, as was done during the War.

An opposition motion for the rejection of the National Economy Bill, the second reading of which will be moved in the Commons by the Prime Minister to-morrow, has been tabled in the names of his former Cabinet colleagues, Mr. J. R. Clynes, Mr. Tom Johnson, Mr. Arthur Greenwood and Mr. George Lansbury.—Reuter and British Wireless.

Let's Have a Pint.

Later.

"Anyhow, let's have a pint before the price goes up" was the remark made by an M.P. in the Lobby at the conclusion of the Budget speech. This typifies the resignation with which the country has received Mr. Snowden's stingy imposts.

The unparalleled storm of cheers at the conclusion of the Chancellor's speech is, however, interpreted more as a personal tribute to Mr. Snowden and relief that the Exchequer is solvent with £32,500,000 to spare towards debt reduction, than as satisfaction with the methods adopted.

The Conservatives were notably taken aback by the income tax burden. For example, a married man with two children and a salary of £500 pays £25 as compared with £8 previously.

WHEN FOOD DISAGREES

How to get quick relief from Indigestion.

If pain, wind or distress follow eating or drinking, simply take a little "Bisurated" Magnesia in a quarter of a glass of water and the cause of the trouble will be removed at once, together with all the pain! Thousands say this has given relief when all else failed! Hospitals use this remedy and doctors prescribe it. Digestive troubles get worse quickly and they never cure themselves; those who suffer in this way should not, therefore, delay taking the help which only "Bisurated" Magnesia can give. It costs but little and never fails to give relief. When buying, look for the oval "Bismag" trade-mark on the carton.

KANGAROO CHAMPION OF WORLD.

Imagine an announcer describing a fight like this: "Kid Kangaroo drove an upper left to the jaw and a lower right to the belt, following through with a lower left to the chest and an upper right to the nose." For it is four gloves and not just two that have to be contended with when a boxer goes in the ring against "Aussie," kangaroo-weight champion of the world. In this remarkable picture Aussie is seen fighting his owner, Lindsay Fabre, in London. His tail gives Aussie an unfair advantage.

NEW KOWLOON CLUB.

RUGGER ENTHUSIASTS GET TOGETHER.

Efforts by Mr. F. Angus and others interested to organise a Rugby club, to be run in affiliation with the K.B.S.F.P.A., resulted in a well-attended meeting being held at the Association's clubhouse in King's Park yesterday evening.

A suggestion that the club be called the Kowloon Rugger Club found general favour, and a temporary committee composed of Messrs. F. Angus, J. J. Ferguson and G. Burnett, was elected to deal with preliminary work in the establishment of the club.

The forthcoming wedding is announced of Mr. Bernard Joseph Murray, Kowloon Hotel, to Miss Julia Marguerite Weigle, No. 11, Cameron Road, Kowloon.

ARE YOU SATISFIED WITH YOUR PRESENT TREATMENT?

If you are not it is most likely because you are treating the symptoms and neglecting to treat the CAUSE. To treat disease successfully you must remove the cause. In the many complaints arising from impurities of the blood there is no finer medicine than CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE, which gets to the root of the trouble by removing the poison from the blood, that is why it so often succeeds when local treatment has failed.

CHILEAN DICTATORSHIP TOPPLES.

Shouting mobs swarmed through the streets of Santiago, hailing the overthrow of the four-year military regime of Gen. Carlos Ibanez. This picture shows a noisy street throng, including many women, cheering news of the ascendancy to power of Juan E. Estenbo Montero, newly appointed Premier, whose government was recognized by the United States. Thirty-five persons were killed and 350 injured in disorders accompanying the fall of the Ibanez regime.

MR. HENDERSON'S ECONOMY VIEW.

HOW CABINET CAME TO RESIGN.

London, Sept. 10.
Police reserves were on duty when the Trade Union Congress resumed at Bristol this morning, in order to prevent a recurrence of yesterday's disorders, and in view of Communist threats of demonstrations on the occasion of Mr. Arthur Henderson's speech to the delegates. Mr. Henderson was greeted with loud and prolonged cheers, the delegates rising to their feet. He said the Labour Cabinet was invited to begin to balance the Budget at the wrong end. "When you begin to consider the question of equality of sacrifice, you are not entitled to begin with the poorest of the poor."

He had suggested that the first step should be the suspending of the sinking fund; also, with the wonderful example of Australia in mind, he suggested that a conversion loan be in the forefront of the programme, but this was never seriously considered.

Previous "Cut" Approved.

Mr. Henderson added that he found that during his absence in Paris before the London Conference of July, the idea of a National Government had been discussed.

He said the late Cabinet decided by a majority on a ten per cent. cut in unemployment payments, but "other interests" outside had reserved the right to press for an increase in the cut, whereupon he and his colleagues rejected it altogether.

The whole settlement broke down over £12,500,000.

The first thing he did after his election to leadership of the party was to appoint a committee to consider the increasing power of money interests.

Rather than face a large cut in unemployment payments, he, al-

IMPERSONATING A POLICE OFFICER.

CHINESE IN LEAGUE WITH CONSTABLE.

On the charge of impersonating a police officer, Lo Po made another appearance before Mr. Fraser, at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday afternoon, and was fined $100 or, in default, one month's hard labour.

Mr. M. A. da Silva appeared for the defendant.

It will be recalled that Mr. Fraser adjourned the case on Tuesday afternoon, saying that he was not prepared just then to give a verdict.

In passing sentence yesterday, his Worship said he had gone over the evidence very carefully and, on that evidence, he had to register a conviction. His Worship added that there was no doubt of the defendant being in league with Constable C431, who also had a part in the matter. He strongly recommended that the constable be dealt with.

Though a strong free trader, was prepared to try a ten per cent. tariff experiment, and earmark the revenue from this for unemployment purposes.

A Resolution Adopted.

The Trade Union Congress subsequently adopted a resolution welcoming the present tendency towards comprehensive planning of the economic life of the nation, and the regulation of trading relations; and instructing the General Council to advance this policy both nationally and internationally.—Reuter.

British Credits Abroad.

Major Elliott, the Financial Secretary to the Treasury, answering a question in the House of Commons earlier, announced the terms of the British Treasury credit with the United States and France. He said that each amounted to a maximum of £40,000,000 for a period of twelve months. The American arrangement was a bank credit, on which the Treasury was entitled to draw by the deposit of dollar bills, and the rate of discount would be one per cent. above the official discount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank in New York, with a minimum of 4½ per cent. and a maximum of 6 per cent.—Reuter.

SHANGHAI THEFT CASES.

TWO FOREIGNERS BOUND OVER.

(Our Own Correspondent.)

Shanghai, Sept. 11. Alex Morrison, a British subject, who was charged on Wednesday on the complaint of Dr. Delecki with stealing and pawned a typewriter, was sentenced by Mr. Haines, the Magistrate, yesterday. Accused was bound over for one year, provided his friends furnish two sureties of $500 each.

C. Mackenzie, alias Christie, a young Briton who admitted stealing a motor-cycle valued at over $650, which had been entrusted to him for sale by a Chinese, was bound over for two years. He offered to pay $100, due to him towards recompensing the owner of the cycle.

WAR CONFERENCE CALLED.

ASSEMBLES TO-DAY IN NANKING.

Shanghai, Sept. 11. The greatest attention is being centred on an important military conference which is to be held this afternoon at Government Headquarters when Marshal Chiang Kai-shek will discuss with his chief subordinates the advisability of organising a war against the Southern Government and simultaneously schemes to defend Hupan Province.

The disposition of troops and erection of fortifications, etc., in Hupan and Hupien are being directed by the Nanking War Minister, General Ho Ying-ching, who has made Changsha his headquarters. Marshal Chiang is waiting for the arrival from Peking of Messrs. Li Shih-tseng and Chang Chi and other Nanking leaders before leaving for his tour of inspection in Hupan and Hankow. —Reuska.

CHINESE EXPULSIONS FROM MEXICO.

AMERICA NOT TO INTERFERE.

Washington, Sept. 10. The United States will decline to participate in the controversy concerning the expulsion of Chinese from Mexico, unless both Mexico and China request such action, according to a statement to-day by officials of the State Department. —Reuter's American Service.

AMUSEMENT CO. SUCCEEDS.

GETS THE VERDICT IN GRAMOPHONE CASE.

NEGLIGENT DRIVER.

Hongkong Amusements, Ltd., have succeeded in their action against the Luen Yick Motor Company, No. 145, Praya East, in a claim for $300 damages, the Puisse Judge (Mr. Justice Lindsell) delivering judgment in the Summary Court this morning when he found for the plaintiffs on the claim with costs.

The gramophone was being transported to the Cheung Lok Theatre, Shaikwan, and when near the new Hongkong Electric Building, owing to the truck driver's negligence in rounding a sharp corner, the gramophone was thrown on to the road, being damaged to the extent of the claim.

Mr. H. J. Armstrong was for plaintiff while Mr. H. L. Dennis defended.

Proximate Cause.

In his judgment, after setting out the facts proved or admitted, in the course of which he found that the driver did not travel at an unreasonable speed, his Lordship found that the proximate cause of the gramophone being thrown on to the road was the negligence of the driver, Ho Tsol, this finding being based on the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur and the evidence. His Lordship also found that defendants were acting as common carriers.

His Lordship found against defendant on three points (1) that plaintiffs could not succeed because there was no privity of contract, (2) that if defendants were acting as common carriers (as his Lordship had found they were) their common law liability was displaced by the action of plaintiffs in putting their own employees in charge of the goods carried, it being contended that as defendants were never in possession of the goods they were not liable, and (3) that even if there was negligence on defendants' side there was contributory negligence on the part of plaintiffs by not seeing that the gramophone was properly fixed to the lorry.

Contention Ruled Out.

His Lordship concluded:—With this contention again I cannot agree. Allowing that further measures might have been taken by plaintiffs for the safe carriage of their property, and leaving aside the question whether defendants' driver ought not, himself, to have taken such measures, I am still satisfied that if the lorry had been properly driven the gramophone would, in the ordinary course of events, have safely reached its destination.

His Lordship gave judgment for the plaintiffs for claim and costs.

INTERPORT POLO CONTESTS.

HONGKONG TO PLAY ON MONDAY.

(Our Own Correspondent.)

Shanghai, Sept. 11. The Hongkong polo players who were yesterday defeated by Shanghai, are to play Tientsin on Monday. Whatever the outcome, to-morrow's match, between Shanghai and Peking decides the destination of the Keswick Cup.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Hongkong Development Building and Savings Society.

[To the Editor, Hongkong Telegraph.]

Sir, The report of the proceedings of the Extraordinary General Meeting held on the 31st August last and published in your issue of the 1st September, 1931, is not quite accurate, in that the statement made by Dr. Kew was withdrawn absolutely and not as reported "for the moment". As Chairman of the meeting I confirm this and it is borne out by my acceptance of the withdrawal. Dr. Kew desires to add that his remarks at the meeting were not intended in any way as a reflection on the liquidators, nor did he at any time intend to impugn their reputation.

Yours faithfully,
J. H. SEETH,
F. H. KEW.

THE UNEMPLOYED.

PREMIER TO RECEIVE DEPUTATION.

London, Sept. 10. The Prime Minister has consented to receive a deputation of not more than six unemployed men on Monday next. The deputation will be informal and not representative of any organisation. —British Wireless.

NEW MINISTER.

Shanghai, Sept. 11. The newly-appointed Japanese Minister, Mr. Shigemitsu, will leave for Nanking on Sunday to interview Marshal Chiang Kai-shek. On Monday, he will present his credentials. —Reuska.

THE TYPHOON.

The Royal Observatory reports that the typhoon is about 200 miles S.E. of Shanghai moving North. A depression is central to the South of Hanoi.
